An old-timey title card is shown, reading: "F.O.X. UPDATE (Federation of Outstanding Explorers). A 1930's-esque narration begins over animated images depicting the events and people described.

NARRATOR

Attention all Federation of Outstanding Explorers members. Today our hearts are heavy over the loss of Professor Arthur Fact. He is assumed dead, after a number of F.O.X. Explorers combed the ruins of an ancient Peruvian society and failed to find him. A memorial service will be held at F.O.X. Headquarters this Sunday, where we will remember and celebrate him, his life, and his many achievements in the pursuit of discovery. All F.O.X. members able to attend are encouraged to be there. One of the search teams, led by Claus Von Ferbodenstein, although unable to find the Professor, did uncover several ancient relics in the ruins; a bittersweet victory for the scientific and historical community. Ferbodenstein will be recognized at a ceremony next month for his discoveries with, quote: "gratitude on my lips and sorrow in my heart". This has been an Update Report of the Federation of Outstanding Explorers.
